Webinar Outline

Knowing what is 'normal' during a work stoppage will help keep your reaction in perspective and emotions under control. This course will help you develop and build a plan, achieving the ultimate goal of keeping your employees safe and continuing operations to meet your customer's needs. By doing so, you help to manage the expectations of all affected by a labor dispute. During this presentation, we will look at several areas and strategies that will allow you to meet these goals.

Topics Discussed:

- Review the business impact of a potential labor dispute
- Outline union pressure tactics
- Review what you should be prepared for prior and during a work stoppage
 - At home
 - In the community
 - In the media – traditional and social
 - On the picket line
- Manage expectations via real life examples
- Suggested courses of action
